Juniper & Slate Campaign and Client Briefs

30 fictional campaign briefs with exact answerable facts

Purpose and safe use

This manual is a deliberately fictional, long-form retrieval and workflow test set for a Gombey AI staging workspace. All businesses, people, budgets, dates, offers, and performance targets are invented. Use synthetic questions only. The documents are designed to test exact fact retrieval, cross-document synthesis, citations, uncertainty handling, approval boundaries, and safe drafting; they are not real customer guidance.

How to evaluate

Upload the three manuals to one admin-managed shared File Search agent. Ask members to select that agent, request a cited fact, compare it with the separate answer key, ask at least one unsupported question, and ask for a draft action plan. A pass requires correct facts, a relevant source citation, no invented answer, and a clear statement when the platform cannot perform an external action.

Corpus map

Manual 1 defines fictional studio operations and approval rules. Manual 2 contains 30 separate campaign briefs with unique dates, budgets, owners, offers, channels, metrics, and claims boundaries. Manual 3 contains 30 operational procedures with role, trigger, inputs, steps, evidence, and stop conditions.

Synthetic workspace: Juniper & Slate Creative Studio

Fictional office hours are Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Eastern. Owner: Morgan Ellis. Operations lead: Riley Chen. Creative director: Dana Patel. Account leads: Priya Nair and Elliot Brooks. Performance analyst: Marcus Reed. Every customer-facing release requires the named client approver.

01. JS-C01 | Ash & Anvil Roastery

Campaign: Winter Blend Preview. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is subscription sampler. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Ash & Anvil Roastery | specialty coffee
Campaign code	JS-C01
Launch / first review	2026-11-04 / 2026-10-27
Production budget cap	$2,400
Account lead / client approver	Riley Chen / Naomi Bell
Channel / call to action	email and Instagram / View the collection
Offer / KPI target	10 percent off the first sampler / 410 qualified landing sessions
Deliverables	one landing-page outline, three email messages, four social captions, and a measurement note

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Naomi Bell before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: 10 percent off the first sampler. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'View the collection' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Only say single-origin when the lot sheet confirms origin. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-10-27; final client approval belongs to Naomi Bell. The account lead is Riley Chen. Track qualified landing sessions using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 410 qualified landing sessions; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $2,400, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 4 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-04 as the launch date, email and Instagram as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'View the collection'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Ash & Anvil Roastery's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

02. JS-C02 | Bellwether Paper Co

Campaign: Desk Reset Collection. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is planner bundle. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Bellwether Paper Co | stationery
Campaign code	JS-C02
Launch / first review	2026-11-06 / 2026-10-29
Production budget cap	$2,575
Account lead / client approver	Dana Patel / Theo Martin
Channel / call to action	Pinterest and email / Reserve a place
Offer / KPI target	free gift wrap on orders over $45 / 447 completed registration forms
Deliverables	five social assets, one short-form copy set, a tagged destination link, and a review checklist

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Theo Martin before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: free gift wrap on orders over $45. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Reserve a place' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim archival permanence without the paper certificate. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-10-29; final client approval belongs to Theo Martin. The account lead is Dana Patel. Track completed registration forms using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 447 completed registration forms; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $2,575, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 5 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-06 as the launch date, Pinterest and email as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Reserve a place'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Bellwether Paper Co's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

03. JS-C03 | Cedar Lane Cycles

Campaign: Spring Tune-Up Waitlist. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is service appointments. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Cedar Lane Cycles | bicycle repair
Campaign code	JS-C03
Launch / first review	2026-11-08 / 2026-10-31
Production budget cap	$2,750
Account lead / client approver	Priya Nair / Ava Sinclair
Channel / call to action	local search and email / Request a quote
Offer / KPI target	free safety check with a booked tune-up / 2.6% email click-through rate
Deliverables	one campaign page, two email variants, a product description, and a launch calendar

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Ava Sinclair before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: free safety check with a booked tune-up. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Request a quote' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not promise same-day repair or safety certification. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-10-31; final client approval belongs to Ava Sinclair. The account lead is Priya Nair. Track email click-through rate using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 2.6% email click-through rate; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $2,750, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 6 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-08 as the launch date, local search and email as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Request a quote'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Cedar Lane Cycles's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

04. JS-C04 | Dovetail Housewares

Campaign: Small-Space Storage Edit. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is storage product collection. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Dovetail Housewares | home goods
Campaign code	JS-C04
Launch / first review	2026-11-10 / 2026-11-02
Production budget cap	$2,925
Account lead / client approver	Marcus Reed / Owen Park
Channel / call to action	Instagram and landing page / Book a consultation
Offer / KPI target	bundle pricing on the three-item set / 521 booked consultations
Deliverables	an event listing, three reminder messages, two visual sizes, and an RSVP test record

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Owen Park before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: bundle pricing on the three-item set. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Book a consultation' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim a product fits every apartment layout. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-02; final client approval belongs to Owen Park. The account lead is Marcus Reed. Track booked consultations using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 521 booked consultations; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $2,925, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 7 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-10 as the launch date, Instagram and landing page as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Book a consultation'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Dovetail Housewares's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

05. JS-C05 | Ember & Tide Candleworks

Campaign: Evening Ritual Gift Set. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is gift set. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Ember & Tide Candleworks | home fragrance
Campaign code	JS-C05
Launch / first review	2026-11-12 / 2026-11-04
Production budget cap	$3,100
Account lead / client approver	Elliot Brooks / Mila Reyes
Channel / call to action	email and Instagram / Get the event details
Offer / KPI target	complimentary note card / 558 event RSVPs
Deliverables	a search snippet, one landing-page section, four organic posts, and an analytics definition

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Mila Reyes before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: complimentary note card. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Get the event details' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim therapeutic or sleep benefits. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-04; final client approval belongs to Mila Reyes. The account lead is Elliot Brooks. Track event RSVPs using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 558 event RSVPs; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $3,100, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 8 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-12 as the launch date, email and Instagram as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Get the event details'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Ember & Tide Candleworks's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

06. JS-C06 | Fableline Books

Campaign: Local Author Week. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is event registration. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Fableline Books | independent bookstore
Campaign code	JS-C06
Launch / first review	2026-11-14 / 2026-11-06
Production budget cap	$3,275
Account lead / client approver	Riley Chen / Samir Cole
Channel / call to action	newsletter and community calendar / See the bundle
Offer / KPI target	free event entry with RSVP / 595 product-page add-to-cart events
Deliverables	one landing-page outline, three email messages, four social captions, and a measurement note

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Samir Cole before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: free event entry with RSVP. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'See the bundle' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not state an author's attendance until confirmed. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-06; final client approval belongs to Samir Cole. The account lead is Riley Chen. Track product-page add-to-cart events using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 595 product-page add-to-cart events; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $3,275, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 4 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-14 as the launch date, newsletter and community calendar as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'See the bundle'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Fableline Books's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

07. JS-C07 | Grove Street Ceramics

Campaign: Hand-Built Mug Workshop. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is class registration. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Grove Street Ceramics | ceramics studio
Campaign code	JS-C07
Launch / first review	2026-11-16 / 2026-11-08
Production budget cap	$3,450
Account lead / client approver	Dana Patel / Lena Foster
Channel / call to action	Instagram and email / View the collection
Offer / KPI target	early registration includes clay sample / 632 qualified landing sessions
Deliverables	five social assets, one short-form copy set, a tagged destination link, and a review checklist

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Lena Foster before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: early registration includes clay sample. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'View the collection' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not imply shipping is included in class tuition. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-08; final client approval belongs to Lena Foster. The account lead is Dana Patel. Track qualified landing sessions using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 632 qualified landing sessions; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $3,450, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 5 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-16 as the launch date, Instagram and email as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'View the collection'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Grove Street Ceramics's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

08. JS-C08 | Harborlight Coworking

Campaign: Quiet Desk Trial. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is day-pass booking. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Harborlight Coworking | coworking space
Campaign code	JS-C08
Launch / first review	2026-11-18 / 2026-11-10
Production budget cap	$3,625
Account lead / client approver	Priya Nair / Noah Kim
Channel / call to action	LinkedIn and landing page / Reserve a place
Offer / KPI target	one first-day pass at the published introductory rate / 669 completed registration forms
Deliverables	one campaign page, two email variants, a product description, and a launch calendar

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Noah Kim before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: one first-day pass at the published introductory rate. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Reserve a place' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not call the space 24-hour access; staffed hours are limited. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-10; final client approval belongs to Noah Kim. The account lead is Priya Nair. Track completed registration forms using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 669 completed registration forms; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $3,625, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 6 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-18 as the launch date, LinkedIn and landing page as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Reserve a place'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Harborlight Coworking's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

09. JS-C09 | Ink & Orchard Printshop

Campaign: Holiday Card Proofing. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is custom print order. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Ink & Orchard Printshop | print studio
Campaign code	JS-C09
Launch / first review	2026-11-20 / 2026-11-12
Production budget cap	$3,800
Account lead / client approver	Marcus Reed / Iris Bennett
Channel / call to action	email and organic search / Request a quote
Offer / KPI target	free proof review before production / 3.2% email click-through rate
Deliverables	an event listing, three reminder messages, two visual sizes, and an RSVP test record

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Iris Bennett before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: free proof review before production. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Request a quote' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not promise color match across uncalibrated screens. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-12; final client approval belongs to Iris Bennett. The account lead is Marcus Reed. Track email click-through rate using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 3.2% email click-through rate; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $3,800, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 7 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-20 as the launch date, email and organic search as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Request a quote'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Ink & Orchard Printshop's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

10. JS-C10 | Juniper Vale Florals

Campaign: November Table Arrangements. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is seasonal arrangement. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Juniper Vale Florals | florist
Campaign code	JS-C10
Launch / first review	2026-11-22 / 2026-11-14
Production budget cap	$3,975
Account lead / client approver	Elliot Brooks / Caleb Ward
Channel / call to action	Instagram and local email / Book a consultation
Offer / KPI target	delivery fee waived in the core delivery zone / 743 booked consultations
Deliverables	a search snippet, one landing-page section, four organic posts, and an analytics definition

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Caleb Ward before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: delivery fee waived in the core delivery zone. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Book a consultation' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not guarantee exact flower varieties during seasonal substitutions. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-14; final client approval belongs to Caleb Ward. The account lead is Elliot Brooks. Track booked consultations using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 743 booked consultations; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $3,975, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 8 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-22 as the launch date, Instagram and local email as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Book a consultation'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Juniper Vale Florals's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

11. JS-C11 | Kettle & Loom Kitchen

Campaign: Host Gift Set. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is gift bundle. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Kettle & Loom Kitchen | kitchen textiles
Campaign code	JS-C11
Launch / first review	2026-11-24 / 2026-11-16
Production budget cap	$4,150
Account lead / client approver	Riley Chen / Naomi Bell
Channel / call to action	Pinterest and email / Get the event details
Offer / KPI target	bundle ships with a handwritten message / 780 event RSVPs
Deliverables	one landing-page outline, three email messages, four social captions, and a measurement note

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Naomi Bell before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: bundle ships with a handwritten message. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Get the event details' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim stain-proof unless the product spec says so. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-16; final client approval belongs to Naomi Bell. The account lead is Riley Chen. Track event RSVPs using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 780 event RSVPs; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $4,150, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 4 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-24 as the launch date, Pinterest and email as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Get the event details'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Kettle & Loom Kitchen's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

12. JS-C12 | Lantern Row Gallery

Campaign: First Friday Open House. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is event attendance. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Lantern Row Gallery | art gallery
Campaign code	JS-C12
Launch / first review	2026-11-26 / 2026-11-18
Production budget cap	$4,325
Account lead / client approver	Dana Patel / Theo Martin
Channel / call to action	newsletter and community listings / See the bundle
Offer / KPI target	free entry; artwork purchases remain separate / 817 product-page add-to-cart events
Deliverables	five social assets, one short-form copy set, a tagged destination link, and a review checklist

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Theo Martin before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: free entry; artwork purchases remain separate. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'See the bundle' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not imply an artist will be present without confirmation. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-18; final client approval belongs to Theo Martin. The account lead is Dana Patel. Track product-page add-to-cart events using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 817 product-page add-to-cart events; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $4,325, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 5 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-26 as the launch date, newsletter and community listings as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'See the bundle'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Lantern Row Gallery's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

13. JS-C13 | Maple Circuit Makers

Campaign: Weekend Electronics Lab. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is class registration. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Maple Circuit Makers | maker education
Campaign code	JS-C13
Launch / first review	2026-11-28 / 2026-11-20
Production budget cap	$4,500
Account lead / client approver	Priya Nair / Ava Sinclair
Channel / call to action	email and LinkedIn / View the collection
Offer / KPI target	student kit included for the first 12 seats / 854 qualified landing sessions
Deliverables	one campaign page, two email variants, a product description, and a launch calendar

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Ava Sinclair before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: student kit included for the first 12 seats. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'View the collection' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim no prior experience is needed; basic safety briefing is required. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-20; final client approval belongs to Ava Sinclair. The account lead is Priya Nair. Track qualified landing sessions using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 854 qualified landing sessions; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $4,500, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 6 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-28 as the launch date, email and LinkedIn as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'View the collection'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Maple Circuit Makers's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

14. JS-C14 | North Loop Leather

Campaign: Repair and Reuse Month. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is repair intake. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	North Loop Leather | leather goods
Campaign code	JS-C14
Launch / first review	2026-11-30 / 2026-11-22
Production budget cap	$4,675
Account lead / client approver	Marcus Reed / Owen Park
Channel / call to action	Instagram and email / Reserve a place
Offer / KPI target	complimentary condition assessment / 891 completed registration forms
Deliverables	an event listing, three reminder messages, two visual sizes, and an RSVP test record

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Owen Park before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: complimentary condition assessment. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Reserve a place' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not guarantee that every item is repairable. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-22; final client approval belongs to Owen Park. The account lead is Marcus Reed. Track completed registration forms using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 891 completed registration forms; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $4,675, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 7 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-11-30 as the launch date, Instagram and email as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Reserve a place'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to North Loop Leather's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

15. JS-C15 | Olive & Alder Pantry

Campaign: Pantry Pairing Box. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is food gift box. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Olive & Alder Pantry | specialty foods
Campaign code	JS-C15
Launch / first review	2026-12-02 / 2026-11-24
Production budget cap	$4,850
Account lead / client approver	Elliot Brooks / Mila Reyes
Channel / call to action	email and landing page / Request a quote
Offer / KPI target	two-product pairing at the listed bundle price / 3.8% email click-through rate
Deliverables	a search snippet, one landing-page section, four organic posts, and an analytics definition

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Mila Reyes before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: two-product pairing at the listed bundle price. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Request a quote' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not make nutrition or allergen claims beyond the verified label. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-24; final client approval belongs to Mila Reyes. The account lead is Elliot Brooks. Track email click-through rate using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 3.8% email click-through rate; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $4,850, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 8 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-02 as the launch date, email and landing page as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Request a quote'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Olive & Alder Pantry's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

16. JS-C16 | Paper Kite Studio

Campaign: Brand Sketch Night. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is workshop seat. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Paper Kite Studio | creative workshops
Campaign code	JS-C16
Launch / first review	2026-12-04 / 2026-11-26
Production budget cap	$5,025
Account lead / client approver	Riley Chen / Samir Cole
Channel / call to action	Instagram and event listing / Book a consultation
Offer / KPI target	materials included with registration / 965 booked consultations
Deliverables	one landing-page outline, three email messages, four social captions, and a measurement note

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Samir Cole before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: materials included with registration. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Book a consultation' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not represent a workshop as a completed brand identity. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-26; final client approval belongs to Samir Cole. The account lead is Riley Chen. Track booked consultations using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 965 booked consultations; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $5,025, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 4 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-04 as the launch date, Instagram and event listing as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Book a consultation'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Paper Kite Studio's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

17. JS-C17 | Quarry House Plants

Campaign: Low-Light Starter Shelf. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is plant and pot set. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Quarry House Plants | plant shop
Campaign code	JS-C17
Launch / first review	2026-12-06 / 2026-11-28
Production budget cap	$5,200
Account lead / client approver	Dana Patel / Lena Foster
Channel / call to action	local search and Instagram / Get the event details
Offer / KPI target	care card included with each set / 1002 event RSVPs
Deliverables	five social assets, one short-form copy set, a tagged destination link, and a review checklist

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Lena Foster before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: care card included with each set. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Get the event details' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not guarantee survival; light and watering vary by home. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-28; final client approval belongs to Lena Foster. The account lead is Dana Patel. Track event RSVPs using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1002 event RSVPs; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $5,200, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 5 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-06 as the launch date, local search and Instagram as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Get the event details'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Quarry House Plants's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

18. JS-C18 | Riverside Audio Repair

Campaign: Listening Room Check-In. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is equipment intake. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Riverside Audio Repair | audio repair
Campaign code	JS-C18
Launch / first review	2026-12-08 / 2026-11-30
Production budget cap	$5,375
Account lead / client approver	Priya Nair / Noah Kim
Channel / call to action	local search and email / See the bundle
Offer / KPI target	free initial diagnostic for listed device classes / 1039 product-page add-to-cart events
Deliverables	one campaign page, two email variants, a product description, and a launch calendar

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Noah Kim before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: free initial diagnostic for listed device classes. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'See the bundle' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not promise a repair price before inspection. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-11-30; final client approval belongs to Noah Kim. The account lead is Priya Nair. Track product-page add-to-cart events using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1039 product-page add-to-cart events; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $5,375, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 6 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-08 as the launch date, local search and email as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'See the bundle'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Riverside Audio Repair's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

19. JS-C19 | Saltbox Textile Lab

Campaign: Natural Dye Introduction. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is class registration. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Saltbox Textile Lab | textile classes
Campaign code	JS-C19
Launch / first review	2026-12-10 / 2026-12-02
Production budget cap	$5,550
Account lead / client approver	Marcus Reed / Iris Bennett
Channel / call to action	newsletter and Instagram / View the collection
Offer / KPI target	starter swatch pack included / 1076 qualified landing sessions
Deliverables	an event listing, three reminder messages, two visual sizes, and an RSVP test record

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Iris Bennett before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: starter swatch pack included. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'View the collection' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not promise identical natural-dye results across fabric lots. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-02; final client approval belongs to Iris Bennett. The account lead is Marcus Reed. Track qualified landing sessions using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1076 qualified landing sessions; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $5,550, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 7 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-10 as the launch date, newsletter and Instagram as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'View the collection'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Saltbox Textile Lab's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

20. JS-C20 | Tern & Timber Furniture

Campaign: Made-to-Measure Consults. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is consultation booking. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Tern & Timber Furniture | furniture maker
Campaign code	JS-C20
Launch / first review	2026-12-12 / 2026-12-04
Production budget cap	$5,725
Account lead / client approver	Elliot Brooks / Caleb Ward
Channel / call to action	Pinterest and landing page / Reserve a place
Offer / KPI target	first design call is complimentary / 1113 completed registration forms
Deliverables	a search snippet, one landing-page section, four organic posts, and an analytics definition

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Caleb Ward before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: first design call is complimentary. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Reserve a place' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not quote final lead time before material and capacity review. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-04; final client approval belongs to Caleb Ward. The account lead is Elliot Brooks. Track completed registration forms using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1113 completed registration forms; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $5,725, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 8 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-12 as the launch date, Pinterest and landing page as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Reserve a place'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Tern & Timber Furniture's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

21. JS-C21 | Umber Street Comics

Campaign: Creator Signing Saturday. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is event RSVP. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Umber Street Comics | comic shop
Campaign code	JS-C21
Launch / first review	2026-12-14 / 2026-12-06
Production budget cap	$5,900
Account lead / client approver	Riley Chen / Naomi Bell
Channel / call to action	newsletter and social / Request a quote
Offer / KPI target	free RSVP; signed editions have separate prices / 4.4% email click-through rate
Deliverables	one landing-page outline, three email messages, four social captions, and a measurement note

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Naomi Bell before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: free RSVP; signed editions have separate prices. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Request a quote' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not announce a signing guest until the contract is confirmed. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-06; final client approval belongs to Naomi Bell. The account lead is Riley Chen. Track email click-through rate using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 4.4% email click-through rate; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $5,900, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 4 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-14 as the launch date, newsletter and social as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Request a quote'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Umber Street Comics's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

22. JS-C22 | Vellum & Vine Stationers

Campaign: New Year Correspondence Kit. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is stationery set. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Vellum & Vine Stationers | paper goods
Campaign code	JS-C22
Launch / first review	2026-12-16 / 2026-12-08
Production budget cap	$6,075
Account lead / client approver	Dana Patel / Theo Martin
Channel / call to action	email and Pinterest / Book a consultation
Offer / KPI target	one envelope sampler included / 1187 booked consultations
Deliverables	five social assets, one short-form copy set, a tagged destination link, and a review checklist

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Theo Martin before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: one envelope sampler included. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Book a consultation' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim recycled content percentage without supplier data. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-08; final client approval belongs to Theo Martin. The account lead is Dana Patel. Track booked consultations using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1187 booked consultations; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $6,075, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 5 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-16 as the launch date, email and Pinterest as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Book a consultation'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Vellum & Vine Stationers's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

23. JS-C23 | Westbank Woodworks

Campaign: Intro to Joinery. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is class registration. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Westbank Woodworks | woodworking classes
Campaign code	JS-C23
Launch / first review	2026-12-18 / 2026-12-10
Production budget cap	$6,250
Account lead / client approver	Priya Nair / Ava Sinclair
Channel / call to action	local search and email / Get the event details
Offer / KPI target	safety glasses provided for registered attendees / 1224 event RSVPs
Deliverables	one campaign page, two email variants, a product description, and a launch calendar

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Ava Sinclair before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: safety glasses provided for registered attendees. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Get the event details' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim a participant can use power tools without supervision. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-10; final client approval belongs to Ava Sinclair. The account lead is Priya Nair. Track event RSVPs using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1224 event RSVPs; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $6,250, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 6 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-18 as the launch date, local search and email as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Get the event details'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Westbank Woodworks's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

24. JS-C24 | Xylem House Studio

Campaign: Shelf Styling Sessions. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is consultation booking. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Xylem House Studio | interior styling
Campaign code	JS-C24
Launch / first review	2026-12-20 / 2026-12-12
Production budget cap	$6,425
Account lead / client approver	Marcus Reed / Owen Park
Channel / call to action	Instagram and landing page / See the bundle
Offer / KPI target	photo-based pre-call review included / 1261 product-page add-to-cart events
Deliverables	an event listing, three reminder messages, two visual sizes, and an RSVP test record

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Owen Park before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: photo-based pre-call review included. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'See the bundle' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not promise a finished room or a fixed project price from photos alone. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-12; final client approval belongs to Owen Park. The account lead is Marcus Reed. Track product-page add-to-cart events using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1261 product-page add-to-cart events; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $6,425, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 7 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-20 as the launch date, Instagram and landing page as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'See the bundle'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Xylem House Studio's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

25. JS-C25 | Yellow Finch Market

Campaign: Winter Vendor Applications. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is vendor application. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Yellow Finch Market | maker market
Campaign code	JS-C25
Launch / first review	2026-12-22 / 2026-12-14
Production budget cap	$6,600
Account lead / client approver	Elliot Brooks / Mila Reyes
Channel / call to action	newsletter and local listings / View the collection
Offer / KPI target	application fee waived through the posted date / 1298 qualified landing sessions
Deliverables	a search snippet, one landing-page section, four organic posts, and an analytics definition

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Mila Reyes before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: application fee waived through the posted date. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'View the collection' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not imply acceptance; applications are reviewed by the organizer. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-14; final client approval belongs to Mila Reyes. The account lead is Elliot Brooks. Track qualified landing sessions using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1298 qualified landing sessions; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $6,600, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 8 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-22 as the launch date, newsletter and local listings as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'View the collection'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Yellow Finch Market's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

26. JS-C26 | Zephyr Type Foundry

Campaign: Display Family Release. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is font license selection. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Zephyr Type Foundry | type design
Campaign code	JS-C26
Launch / first review	2026-12-24 / 2026-12-16
Production budget cap	$6,775
Account lead / client approver	Riley Chen / Samir Cole
Channel / call to action	email and design community / Reserve a place
Offer / KPI target	launch bundle includes the two named weights / 1335 completed registration forms
Deliverables	one landing-page outline, three email messages, four social captions, and a measurement note

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Samir Cole before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: launch bundle includes the two named weights. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Reserve a place' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not imply the license covers every app or broadcast use. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-16; final client approval belongs to Samir Cole. The account lead is Riley Chen. Track completed registration forms using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1335 completed registration forms; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $6,775, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 4 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-24 as the launch date, email and design community as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Reserve a place'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Zephyr Type Foundry's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

27. JS-C27 | Aster & Beam Lighting

Campaign: Studio Lighting Walkthrough. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is consultation booking. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Aster & Beam Lighting | lighting design
Campaign code	JS-C27
Launch / first review	2026-12-26 / 2026-12-18
Production budget cap	$6,950
Account lead / client approver	Dana Patel / Lena Foster
Channel / call to action	LinkedIn and landing page / Request a quote
Offer / KPI target	fixture schedule review included / 5.0% email click-through rate
Deliverables	five social assets, one short-form copy set, a tagged destination link, and a review checklist

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Lena Foster before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: fixture schedule review included. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Request a quote' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim code compliance without a licensed local professional. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-18; final client approval belongs to Lena Foster. The account lead is Dana Patel. Track email click-through rate using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 5.0% email click-through rate; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $6,950, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 5 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-26 as the launch date, LinkedIn and landing page as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Request a quote'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Aster & Beam Lighting's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

28. JS-C28 | Bluejay Letterpress

Campaign: Small Run Invitation Week. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is print quote request. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Bluejay Letterpress | print studio
Campaign code	JS-C28
Launch / first review	2026-12-28 / 2026-12-20
Production budget cap	$7,125
Account lead / client approver	Priya Nair / Noah Kim
Channel / call to action	email and Instagram / Book a consultation
Offer / KPI target	one paper sample pack included with quote request / 1409 booked consultations
Deliverables	one campaign page, two email variants, a product description, and a launch calendar

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Noah Kim before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: one paper sample pack included with quote request. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Book a consultation' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not promise press availability until the production calendar is checked. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-20; final client approval belongs to Noah Kim. The account lead is Priya Nair. Track booked consultations using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1409 booked consultations; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $7,125, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 6 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-28 as the launch date, email and Instagram as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Book a consultation'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Bluejay Letterpress's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

29. JS-C29 | Copper Fern Workshop

Campaign: Make a Seasonal Wreath. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is class registration. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Copper Fern Workshop | craft classes
Campaign code	JS-C29
Launch / first review	2026-12-30 / 2026-12-22
Production budget cap	$7,300
Account lead / client approver	Marcus Reed / Iris Bennett
Channel / call to action	local search and social / Get the event details
Offer / KPI target	all base materials included; specialty add-ons are extra / 1446 event RSVPs
Deliverables	an event listing, three reminder messages, two visual sizes, and an RSVP test record

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Iris Bennett before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: all base materials included; specialty add-ons are extra. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'Get the event details' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not claim a finished item will match the sample exactly. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-22; final client approval belongs to Iris Bennett. The account lead is Marcus Reed. Track event RSVPs using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1446 event RSVPs; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $7,300, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 7 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2026-12-30 as the launch date, local search and social as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'Get the event details'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Copper Fern Workshop's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.

30. JS-C30 | Driftwood Desk Club

Campaign: Focus Friday Pass. This fictional client brief is the sole source of approved project facts for this code. The goal is day-pass booking. Treat the target as a planning objective, not a guarantee of business results.

Field	Approved project value
Client and sector	Driftwood Desk Club | coworking space
Campaign code	JS-C30
Launch / first review	2027-01-01 / 2026-12-24
Production budget cap	$7,475
Account lead / client approver	Elliot Brooks / Caleb Ward
Channel / call to action	newsletter and local search / See the bundle
Offer / KPI target	coffee voucher included during staffed hours / 1483 product-page add-to-cart events
Deliverables	a search snippet, one landing-page section, four organic posts, and an analytics definition

Audience and message

The account lead must confirm the intended audience with Caleb Ward before writing final copy. The campaign may use only the stated offer: coffee voucher included during staffed hours. Do not add a discount, eligibility condition, inventory promise, or deadline that is not present in this brief. Use the CTA 'See the bundle' exactly or present a changed CTA for approval.

Claims boundary

The explicit limitation is: Do not promise private offices are available with a day pass. Supporting evidence must be checked before using a factual claim. If a customer asks for a stronger statement, record it as a question for the approver; do not convert a suggestion into an approved fact.

Review and measurement

The first client review is due 2026-12-24; final client approval belongs to Caleb Ward. The account lead is Elliot Brooks. Track product-page add-to-cart events using the campaign's approved source, date range, and attribution definition. The target is 1483 product-page add-to-cart events; it is not a promise. The production budget cap is $7,475, separate from any agency fee unless a signed contract says otherwise.

Release checklist

- Prepare 8 planned creative assets and the agreed deliverable set; identify each version.
- Verify 2027-01-01 as the launch date, newsletter and local search as the approved channel, and the destination behind 'See the bundle'.
- Send the exact proof to the named approver; record explicit approval before any customer-facing release.
- If an input is absent, label it unknown and ask the owner rather than inferring it.

Planning note: This page does not grant access to Driftwood Desk Club's production systems, authorize a real advertisement, or confirm that the offer is currently available. It is a fictional test brief only.